It was a beautiful day in Storybrook Village, where Whyatt lived with all of his fairy-tale friends.

But it wasn't a beautiful day for Pig. He and Jill were having a problem!

"Up a hill, up a hill . . . stomp, stomp, stomp!" Jill sang as she knocked over Pig's buildings.

"Jill!" Pig cried. "Stop!" But Jill wouldn't stop.

"Up a hill, up a hill . . . Stomp! Stomp! Stomp!" she sang again.

"Oh, Whyatt," moaned Pig, "this is terrible! What can I do?"

"This is a super-big problem," said Whyatt. "And a super-big problem needs us, the Super Readers!"

Whyatt and Pig raced to the Book Club and met the other Super Readers: Princess Pea and Red Riding Hood.

Everyone listened carefully as Pig explained his problem. "Jill keeps knocking down my buildings! How can I get her to stop?"

"Good question, Pig," said Whyatt. "And when we have a question we look in a book!"

"But which book should we look in?" asked Pig.

Princess Pea knew it was her time to shine. With a wave of her wand, and a trail of sparkles, Princess Pea chanted, "Peas and carrots, carrots and peas, book come out, please, please, please!"

The Super Readers watched as a book came twirling and whirling down from the shelves. The title was The Three Little Pigs.

"Okay, Super Readers! To solve Pig's problem we need to transform into super heroes. Then we need to jump into this book and find all of the red sparkly SUPER LETTERS. Without them we won't be able to answer Pig's question!" said Whyatt. "Now it's time to transform!"

Alpha Pig with Alphabet Power!

WONDER RED WITH WORD POWER!

Princess Presto with Spelling Power!

Super Why with the Power to Read!

"Super Readers . . . to the rescue!"

The Super Readers jumped into their Why Flyers and strapped on their helmets. Then they buckled their seat belts and flew into The Three Little Pigs storybook.

"Super Readers . . . to the rescue!" they called as they zoomed away.

The Super Readers landed inside the book and looked around.

"Oh my peas!" giggled Princess Presto. "So this is what The Three Little Pigs story looks like."

"There's the big bad wolf! He's blowing down that pig's straw house!" Alpha Pig exclaimed.

"That's why we are in this book!" said Super Why. "Jill and the big bad wolf both knock things down!"

The big bad wolf ran away and the Super Readers set off in search of him.

"Oh no!" cried Princess Presto. "Look, there are two different paths! And just this broken sign! How will we know which way the wolf went?"

Alpha Pig . . . to the rescue!

"With my Amazing Alphabet Tools, I can build a sign to tell us which way the wolf went!"

"The only way we're going to rebuild that sign and find this wolf is to spell the word WOLF!" said Alpha Pig. "What letters come first? There's a W. Then an O. Keep going, you've got it! Then there's an L. And last, there's an F. W-O-L-F. That spells WOLF!"

Suddenly, the broken sign whirled around and around until it was fixed.

"Lickety letters!" Alpha Pig exclaimed. "We spelled the word WOLF, and now the sign is pointing the way to the wolf! Let's give ourselves a big thumbs-up!"

"To the wolf!" cried Wonder Red. The Super Readers raced down the path toward the wolf! Until . . . thud!

"Oh my peas!" cried Princess Presto.

"The big bad wolf just knocked down that pig's stick house," said Alpha Pig. "Now there's a huge wall of sticks blocking our path! How will we ever get past it?"

WONDER RED . . . TO THE RESCUE!

"With my Wonder Words Basket, I can change this wall into something else. Then we can get past it and find the wolf."

LIFT HERE
TO HELP THE SUPER READERS!

"WALL is an -ALL word," Wonder Red said. "Which other -ALL word will help us get past this wall?"

FALL

TALL

"Hmm, why don't we try the word B-ALL, BALL!" said Wonder Red. "Okay, here goes." Wonder Red tossed the word BALL over to the wall and wham! The wall became a ball.

"Hey!" giggled Wonder Red. "Now we can roll this ball out of the way!"

"Wonderrific, you are terrific!" cheered Wonder Red as she and the Super Readers pushed the ball out of the way.

There once was a big bad wolf.

The Super Readers followed the path and found the big bad wolf!

"I am going to huff and puff and blow this house down!" shouted the wolf.

"Oh no!" cried Alpha Pig. "He's trying to blow down that brick house!"

"Listen here," Super Why said to the wolf, "why are you not being nice?"

"Because I am the big bad wolf," replied the wolf. "See? It says so right there in my story! Now, if you don't mind, I have some more blowing to do."

"Double drats!" said Wonder Red. "How can we talk to the wolf if he's being big and bad?"

Super Why . . . to the rescue!

"With the Power to Read, I can change this story and save the day!"

LIFT HERE to help the Super Readers!

"The only way we can talk to the big bad wolf is if he stops being big and bad! Let's change the word BIG first!" Super Why pulled out his Why Writer and gave it a spin. "Which word is the opposite of BIG?" asked Super Why. "SMALL! Let's zap it into the sentence and get rid of the word BIG!"

Zzzap! That made the wolf shrink smaller and smaller.

"Hey!" cried the teeny-tiny wolf. "I may be small, but I'm still bad!" But now he was too small to even blow over a flower.

There once was a small bad wolf.

"Uh-oh," said Super Why. "Looks like we have more work to do! We need to change the word BAD in this sentence. What word is the opposite of BAD?" asked Super Why. "It's GOOD! Let's zap the word GOOD into this sentence! Now the sentence says: There once was a small good wolf."

Zzzap! All of a sudden, the small wolf smiled!

"Hello, Super Readers! Nice to meet you. It's me, the small good wolf!"

"Now that you're small and good, we'd like to know why you keep knocking down houses and not being nice?" asked Super Why.

"Well," sniffled the small good wolf. "It's because I . . . I . . . I don't have anyone to play with!"

The wolf was so sad that he started to cry.

"Don't be sad," said Alpha Pig. "I'll play with you! Tag, you're it!"

"Hey! Wait up!" said the wolf. "I've never played with anyone before! This is fun!"

The two chased back and forth as the other Super Readers watched and laughed.

"Um, excuse me, Super Readers?" said the wolf. "I'm having so much fun, but can you make me big again? But I want to keep the good!"

Princess Presto stepped forward. "Why, of course. A princess is always prepared! I can use my Magic Spelling Wand to spell the word BIG and make you big again!"

In a shower of glitter the wolf grew and grew until he was big again, but still quite nice!

"Thank you, Princess Presto!" said the big good wolf.

"You're welcome," said Princess Presto.

The Super Readers had collected all the Super Letters and changed the story of The Three Little Pigs. Now it was time to go home.

"Why Flyers! Back to the Book Club!" said Super Why.

The Super Readers returned to the Book Club and transformed back into their storybook selves.

With a whiz and a zzzap Whyatt made all the Super Letters appear on the Super-Duper Computer.

"F-R-I-E-N-D. That spells FRIEND!" said Whyatt.

"But how does that help Pig fix his problem with Jill?" asked Princess Pea.

Pig understood. And he knew that he needed to find Jill.

"Jill," Pig said. "I feel sad when you knock down my buildings. Maybe instead of knocking them down, you could play with me and be my friend?"

"You want to be my friend?" Jill asked with a smile. "And play with me? Really?"

"Yup! Really!" said Pig.

"And when we're done playing, could I knock down your blocks again?" Jill asked hopefully.

"No," said Pig. "I don't think so."

Jill looked at Pig and then back at the toppled blocks.

"Okay! No knocking down blocks. Let's play!" said Jill.

And with that, Jill and Pig began to chase each other around the block towers . . . as friends.
